Our History of Collaboration and What Brought Us Together: Intel Corporation volunteers from the Intel Latino Network, and the Maricopa Colleges came together almost 15 years ago to influence the STEM workforce of the future. We saw many young women, especially Latina girls, who did not know what it takes to be an engineer, scientist, or technical professional or the opportunities open to them. All too often, there is the perception that these professions are not “traditional careers” for women – especially women from historically underserved backgrounds - as reflected by the low number of women that pursue technical fields. This segment of our growing population in Arizona is most at risk of not being prepared to enter the future workforce. The result of this collaboration was the development of the Hermanas Conference, which has served more than 6000 students in 45 conferences at four (4) colleges in the Maricopa Community College District.

Intel Corporation is collaborating with community colleges to sponsor this pre-college conference. Our participants have historically been underserved female middle and high school students, but all students are encouraged to attend.

A dynamic planning committee comprised of representatives from Intel Corporation and our College have collaborated to design a unique model of partnering academia and corporations around the common goal of increasing college enrollment and graduation rates in STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics) fields.

The Maricopa County Community College District (MCCCD) is an EEO/AA institution and an equal opportunity employer of protected veterans and individuals with disabilities. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, or national origin. A lack of English language skills will not be a barrier to admission and participation in the career and technical education programs of the District. The Maricopa County Community College District does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, disability or age in its programs or activities.
